

Why Volunteer?

What some of our current Volunteers say...

After losing a very close dear friend to cancer I felt that I wanted to try to help to raise funds to make peoples' lives a little more bearable during very difficult times.

Camaraderie and fun at events.

I nursed Helen for 2 years. I do this in memory of her. She was a lovely lady and showed great courage – also her husband who we all admired as he gave her such loving care and that is why he instigated the setting up of HT.

Lost several friends to cancer and wanted to give something back.

New friendships with lovely people

HT helps people when they need it most, to deal with worries and live their life out with as much dignity as possible.

There's a great sense of satisfaction in making a small contribution to a very worthy cause

Friendly atmosphere at meetings

I am looking to change my career and this has given me great experience to put on my CV.

To help local families when they need it.

I enjoy being part of a group – it's a good way of meeting new people and being part of a team

My mother died of cancer in hospital. Her dying wish was that she could spend her last hours at home, but this was not possible due to lack of services – this is why I volunteer for HT – to try to make this possible for other people.

When you live in the countryside it is difficult to access services and facilities. A local charity like HT helps meet this need
